

Anomaly ID Grid – every documented tell

☞ In person – at the counter and among the seats 5 documented · the tell is on the character itself

NAME*	THE TELL	NOTES
"Meat Man"	A customer that should be a cute critter shows up looking like raw meat or a skinned carcass.	Appearance is the whole tell – behaviour stays normal. Scan for exposed-flesh looks where a normal model should be. cross-verified
"One Eye"	A single oversized eye sits in the centre of the face, replacing normal features.	Punishes clothing-only checks – look at faces, not outfits. cross-verified
"Hollow Eyes"	Two large, empty eye sockets – and no nose or mouth at all.	The missing features below the eyes are the confirmation. cross-verified
"Creepy Smile"	Two flat white eyes above an unnaturally wide smile.	Too-large smile, no pupils – a face check catches it. cross-verified
"Angry Face"	Black eyes sunk into dark sockets, open mouth with visible teeth.	⚠ Community-flagged as uncertain – may be a rare normal face. Weigh the rest of the situation before rejecting. uncertain

📺 On CCTV – only visible through the cameras 3 documented · camera prompt is available from Day 1 (v1.3 fix)

NAME*	THE TELL	NOTES
"Eye Ghost"	A white one-eyed ghost with a mouth sitting on top of its body, visible on the feed.	Caught while cycling feeds, not at the counter. If a figure matches no normal visitor, treat it as an anomaly. cross-verified
"Camera Looking"	A character on the feed stares directly into the camera at you.	Normal characters ignore cameras. Known alpha quirk: ears can render normally – don't clear on one feature, the stare is the tell. cross-verified
Head-Banger type	On camera, a character repeatedly slams its head against nearby objects.	A behaviour tell – the model can look normal while the movement gives it away. No confirmed name yet. cross-verified

The alpha rule – this roster is still growing

- *Names in quotes are community names; the developers haven't published official ones for the regular roster yet.
- 4 more anomalies are press-reported but unverified by us: Body Rotation, Fake Urgent Orders, Ominous Dialogue, Broken Freezer Valve. We publish tells only after cross-checking – refreshed sheets land as each one is confirmed.
